Relief Stone Cabinet - Single Door

This single door cabinet is made entirely of Brazilian soap stone and rests a simple hard maple wood base. Precision water-jet cutting is used to cut all of the exterior components from a slab of stone and folded around forming the door, sides and back. This effect is accentuated by the white marble veining that wraps continuously around the cabinet. The triangular relief pattern milled into the stone removes excess weight while the remaining ribs retain the material's strength. The door features a hidden magnetic closure and opens effortlessly using custom precision machined brass and steel hardware.
