Relief Stone Cabinet - Single Door

Having worked the prehistoric material since the stone age, humans have made countless things from stone yielded from our earth yet this entirely stone cabinet is certainly the first of its kind. The exterior shell is precisely cut by water-jet to wrap continuously around the form creating the doors, sides and back. The triangular relief pattern milled into the stone removes excess weight while the remaining ribs retain the material's strength. This single door cabinet sits on a hard maple base.
